SHEEPMEN ASK FOR MODIFICATION

Colonel May Requested to Change His Construction of Law.

IN REGARD TO "OPEN PARKS'

If Present Ruling Stands it Will Mean the Starvation of Hundreds of Utah Sheep-Request Will be Granted.

A number of prominent Utah sheepmen, including President Jesse N Smith and Secretary E. H. Callister of the Utah Wool Growers' association. met in the Star Printing office on West Temple street today, to consider the sheep situation on the Uintah reserve. There is a clause in the law that reads that during certain seasons the sheep may range in the "open parks" on the reserve, and for two years past they have been permitted the freedom of the reserve. Recently Colonel May of Denver, superintendent of forest reserves, hed that the "open parks" mean those patches of land where there i absolutely no timber whatever, and directed the supervisor here to act upor that construction of the terms and see that the sheep were confined to the barren sections of the reserve. But there doesn't happen to be any barren patches large enough to sustain sheep that the strict execution of Colone May's orders means the death of thous-ands of sheep in that country. "All we asked for," remarked E. H. Callister today, "is the same construction on the law that has prevailed for the past two years. 1 am sure our sheep have not injured any timber on the reserve, as they are confined to the scrub trees and the willows. Those kind of place cover the reserve Colonel May's order is a practical ex-clusion of the sheep from the reserve. This simply means that thousands of them will starve to death if the order We sent a telegram this morning to Colonel May, asking him to modify his order so that we will be allowed the same privileges that we have been enjoying for the past two In inspection of the country where the sheep range shows that they have not damaged the good timber, or that which will develop into good I don't know what has caused Colonel May to make the order that he has, but we all feel sure that he will accede to our request and allow the conditions on the reserve to remain as they have been for two years. But, added Mr. Callister, "if Mr. May does not see his way clear to change his orders, we will have Senator Kearns wire Secretary Hitchcock and get the right to the reserve in that way

REVENUE OFFICE REMOVAL. Collector Callister Realizes That He Has Fight on His Hands.

Internal Revenue Collector Callister is home again after being in Helena for three weeks. He is beginning to realize wow that in getting the revenue office moved to Salt Lake he has a hard fight on his hands. Senator Carter, a strong and shrewd man is determined that the office shall remain in the Montana capital, but Mr. Callister has submitted a number of eloquent reasons to the department, setting forth the advantages of having the office in Salt Lake. He is quite sanguine that he will win in the fight but a little delay may be occasioned by the red tape process

Mr. Callister says that he does not care to become a citizen of Montana; that his interests are here in Salt Lake, and he desires to remain here. He has old the department that larger and better offices can be obtained in Sait Lake for the same amount of money. In Helena they are cramped for room. Documents that should be left in vaults are left in the office exposed to fire-Mr. Callister dined with Senator Carter at his home the other day, and was treated with the utmost courtesy.

Dun's Review which reached Salt Lake today from New York says: Trade conditions continue generally isfactory and business in leading job-bing lines is good for the season, notvithstanding extreme hot weather. A fall business is had in dry goods, clothing, shoes and notions, as well as a very sorting business for present uses and trade is satisfactory in groceries drugs, hardware and mining supplies Crop conditions generally are fair though some sections are suffering from drouth and grasshoppers. This is carnival week and a number of strangers are in the city, which helps retail trade. Money continues plenty and easy, with collections fairly good. Lo cal securities are quiet.

Last week's exports from all surplus countries amounted to 7,397,880 bushels, 7,080,149 in the previous week and 7,629,381 a year ago, says Duns' Review. There was a large increase over last year's movement from the United States, and another half million bushels from India, making about a million ir two weeks against nothing in 1900 Shipments from Argentina and Russia showed a heavy decrease. Variations of three cents a bushel in a single day have become so common as to cause little comment, while the returns to the growers for this season's yield promise to be exceptionally remunerative, not-withtstanding the practical certainty of a large yield. Losses in other countries will contribute to the profits of nestic growers. Instead of a return to the low prices of previous years, the being marketed at about twenty cents a bushel more than the smaller yields of a few years ago. Foreign needs are a few years ago. ## DAINTY SUMMER DESSERTS.

A tempting pastry is the Swiss bun, and novel as well. Roll a short piecrust into a strip about eight inches wide and eighteen in length; on this place seeded raisins, chopped figs, fresh fruit, six cloves, a generous handful of brown sugar and bits of butter; fold the two outer edges toward the middle overlapping and pressing together with an unbeaten white of egg so as to prevent juices leaking.

To prepare the dainty dessert known as stuffed peaches, brush the down from ripe, solid fruit, place on a dish in a steamer to cook until a straw will pierce them; cool, then rub off the skins; cut a slit in one side so as to remove the pit; in its place put a marshmallow; roll the peach in powdered sugar and stick browned almonds over each; when serving, place a bit of jelly on each or a piece of candled gin-ger. If Jordan almonds can be had, they make a better appearance than the ordinary nutmeats, but are not essential.

To make cream wafers, warm three tablespoonfuls butter, work into it five eggs, one at a time; then add one-quarter sifted flour, one teaspoonful banana, one-half teaspoonful vanila extracts; mix into a smooth paste; spread into a hot, oiled, dripping pan and bake in a hot oven until a delicate brown; cut into squares; prick with a fork; dip into powdered sugar and cool. When serving, place on a fringed napkin in a silver cake-basket. These are ery acceptable for afternoon tea or
